Checking Air Violations U.S. Reports No Interest By Viet Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)-Secretary of State Dean Rusk gave a general endorsement Friday to Asian efforts to get peace talks going on Viet Nam, but he reported no Hanoi interest in the idea yet.

At a news conference, Rusk also said the U.S. government will be checking further into a Sept. 9 air incident near the North Vietnamese border to see if there is any possibility of "any mistake."

Peking charged that U.S. planes attacked inside Chinese territory. Rusk said his only nformation was that American pilots had encountered some Communist Migs about 30 miles south of the Chinese frontier.

Rusk, who goes to New York this weekend for talks with other foreign ministers at the U.N General Assembly opening next week, was asked about the proposal by visiting Phillipines President Ferdinand E. Marcos for an Asian political forum able to consider such problems as Viet Nam. Marcos also saw Saigon-Hanoi talks as a way toward a negotiated peace.

U.S. planes hit a commune in Kwang Hsi province, bordering on the Tonkin Gulf. The broadcast said three Chinese peasants were wounded, an ox was killed and two houses were damaged in the attack. (In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk discounted the Communist charges. He said J.S. pilots did encounter some Communist MIGS about 30 miles south of the Chinese frontier that day, however He said the Chinese charge was being investigated.)

TOKYO (UPI)-Communist Chinese fighters intercepted two U.S. jets which strafed Chinese villages Sept. 9, Peking radio alleged Friday. The broadcast, monitored here, said one of the American raiders was damaged. The Chinese government "bitterly protests the American military provocation," the broadcast added. According to the report, the U.S. planes hit a commune in Kwang Hsi province, bordering on the Tonkin Gulf.

The broadcast said three Chinese peasants were wounded, an ox was killed and two houses were damaged in the attack.

(In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk discounted the Communist charges. He said U.S. pilots did encounter some Communist MIGS about 30 miles south of the Chinese frontier that day, however. He said the Chinese charge was being investigated.)

Laughable Rights Debacle

President Johnson's statement blaming Congress' failure to enact the obnoxious civil rights bill at this session on the Republicans is so politically patent that it is actually laughable. His effort at buck-passing was so obvious that even some of the most ardent Democratic backers of the rights bill couldn't swallow it.

Not that we consider action by Republicans to block this heinous measure reprehensible. On the contrary, the refusal of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen to accept the bill with its Constitution - shattering housing section is highly commendable, as is all other action against the bill, whether by Republicans or Democrats.

This measure simply is un-American and it is a rank disgrace and an insult to the people of the United States that it was ever introduced in Congress. It would throttle the most important rights of individual freedom and selection of associates. It violates viciously the wording and the intent of the Constitution of the United States.

Republicans reacted sharply to Johnson's statement that "whether it passes or fails will depend largely on what Dirksen does." Dirksen characteristically and with his usual pungency, said he wasn't doing anything, stating, "nothing has changed. My position is just the same."

Sharp and revealing criticism of the President's statement came from both sides. And, thereby may hang a tail, which we have strongly suspected and hinted before. Whatever Johnson may have said or done in behalf of the bill, we believe he is fully aware that the measure is unconstitutional, that it is a travesty on American freedom and that it is an unclean and unfair way to treat both the Negroes and the white people of this country, since it would be robbing both of their American heritage of freedom. Knowing these things, it would be difficult for Johnson to put his whole heart into the matter. Except for the political advantage he might expect to gain, we believe President Johnson abhors the bill as thoroughly as does Senator Dirksen and as do others among both the Democratic and Republican parties who are opposing it.

Senator Jacob K. Javits, R., N. Y., a liberal, who advocates passage of the bill, said Johnson should not try to use Dirksen's opposition as a means of blaming the Republicans if the measure fails. He contended it is unfair to characterize opposition to the measure as Republican opposition.

"The real failure will be the failure to turn out the majority to the extent it needs to be turned out," Javits said.

Similar sentiment came from Senator Robert T. Griffin, R., Mich., who said advocates of the bill are not getting "strong leadership from the White House." In a statement relayed from New York, Griffin said: "The President holds the key to passage of the civil rights bill in his own hands."

A Democrat also objected to any attempt to place responsibility for the bill's fate on Dirksen. "To do that," said Senator Frank J. Lausch, D., Ohio, "is indulging in political manipulations."

This is true, of course, but again we say the political intent is so bald and obvious that it is laughable

Senator Dirksen was philosophical about the question of blamepinning and his humorous remark indicated he is enjoying the situation. And, why not? He should enjoy being on the side of the right. Dirksen said:

"When I meet with Lyndon, I am just as nice as pie to him. But when I go to York, Pa., to speak I try to pin things on some one. There is a constant, calculated effort by one party to pin something on the other party. I expect it."

Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach, who recently verbally violated all principles of law enforcement and law and order by declaring he did not blame Negro looters for taking food from the stores they were smashing if they were hungry, said the administration would rather not have any civil rights bill than one without the so-called open housing provision.

We go along halfway on that deal by saying we would rather not have any civil rights bill, either with or without the open housing section, unless it were a bill to repeal some of the unworthy "rights" bills already adopted

Courthouse Improvements

Citizens who voted a $1.7 million bond issue for improvements to the Ouachita Parish courthouse are pleased that a bid coming within that range — at $1.567,000 — has been received and accepted by the police jury and that work will be started almost immediately.

Contract was awarded to Jesse F. Heard & Sons, Inc., on the recommendation of Ward 3 Juror Robert Downing's courthouse committee after a round of meetings to pare down the total cost to fit the budget.

Work on the new additions will start immediately. All necessary evacuations will be cared for temporarily in the old Ouachita Parish High School buildings.

No district court cases will be postponed by the move. The court will adjourn September 30 and reconvene October 5.

Two things are strongly emphasized by the amount of money being spent on the contract. One of these is that the improvements are extensive and that the amount of additional space to be provided is large. The other is the fact that building costs have increased tremendously. At one time, a splendid new building of grand proportions could have been erected for $1.7. Now improvements on single buildings, such as the nation's Capitol in Washington, may run into many millions of dollars.

Enlargement of the parish courthouse was a matter of prime necessity. There was not nearly enough room to provide storage space for the vast volume of legal records, offices for the required number of workers and courtrooms for the district court.

Not only will the courthouse workers be mightily pleased to be relieved of their cramped quarters but the public will benefit through improved facilities and greater efficiency.

Shattering Dreams

Some segments of low-income people get a little more in the form of government handouts as a result of so-called "anti-poverty" spending — a heavy contributor to inflation — but for others, huge government spending and the resultant inflation are nothing more than shatterers of dreams.

AS FORMER Vice President of the United States and oncetitular leader of the Republican Party, Richard Nixon is a man whose opinions are of value and interest to political observers. The continuing drop of President Johnson's popularity a mong Democrats and independents gives added significance to the judgments of the man most likely to be the GOP's Presidential nominee in 1968.

Mr. Nixon's views, as expressed at a series of confidential and off-the-record meetings in Washington and wherever he travels about the country, have therefore inspired considerable comment among both Republicans and Democrats. But such reports as have filtered through the paper curtain of the press have been garbled or downright wrong.

Here, in paraphrase, is what Mr. Nixon is saying to those with whom he has been meeting:

THE ECONOMY, Mr. Nixon firmly believes, is in bad shape. President Johnson, he says, could have acted in January to forestall some of the troubles besetting the country. By cutting Federal spending, eliminating tax credits, and taking other strong measures, he could have lopped $6 billion from the budget. There would have been a touchy period of temporary economic adjustment, but by now the economy would be mov-Nixon says, the President thinks only in short-range terms and he was worried about the impact of vigorous action on his "consensus" and on the 1966 elections. Elimination now of the 7 per cent tax credit will do him, and the economy, no good since the effects won't be felt for six to eight months from now.

The former Vice President

foresees continued inflation until mid-1967, at which time the country will go into a sharp and long-lasting recession. He points out what he sees as a fallacious belief that you can't have inflation and deflation at the same time, and he notes that this is precisely what hit the United States in 1948-49. The situation, he says, is now irreversible, and he sees this as the most important issue. Because he sees recession gripping the economy in 1968, he predicts flatly that the Republicans will win the bination of recession, great la bor unrest, inflation, and a publie realization that the "poverty program" is a vastly expensive bust will swing the voters away from the Democrats in which a new House and onethird of the Senate will come up before the voters, as well as a number of key governor-ships, look good for the Republicans. They should pick up about 40 seats, about 25 of which will be conservatively oriented. He predicts that Ronald Reagan will win big in California, taking about 20 per ceu of the Democratic vote away from Governor Edmund (Pat) Brown on the "open housing" is sue alone. Charles Percy will beat Senator Paul Douglas in Illinois. Edward Brooks, the Massachusetts Attorney Gener-al, will defeat his Democratic rival for the Senate scat being vacated by Leverett Saltonstall.

Mr. Nixon believes that Re publican Governor Mark Hatfield, running for the Senate in Oregon, is in bad trouble because of his "seft" line on Viet Nam. Mr. Nixon discloses that he advised Governor Hatfield to take a stronger stand, but that his advice was disregarded. In Alabama, Goldwaterite John Grenier will defeat Democratic Senator John Sparkman, but he does not see James Martin de-feating Mrs. Lurlene Wallace, stand-in for her husband George, in the gubernatorial contest. Mr. Nixon also sees GOP victories in Georgia, with Florida an outside chance

ON VIET NAM, Mr. Nixon has changed his views. He once thought chances of victory were indeed slim, but after his most recent visit there he is convinced that we can win, but that the United States must act to wrap it up within the next five years, or before the Chinese Communists are in a position to use nuclear blackmail on the rest of Southeast Asia. There is little chance that President Johnson will be able to pull a rabbit out of the hat by some dramatic move there, as Republicans have feared

The Johnson Administration, according to Mr. Nixon, will "sell out" on the admission of Red China to the United Nations, and the President will "excuse" this by claiming that the United States "doesn't have the votes to stop it. But this is not true. If the President unmistakes his corposition unmistake aide, the UN will not admit the Chinese Reds he says Just the hint that the US will pull out if Red China voe in will block admission.

These, in brief, are some of Mr Nixon's opinions, predictions, and analyses. If he speke out publicly as he does privately on Red China, he could guarantee for himself the 1908 Presidential nomination.

During the Presidential campaign I can recall speaking several times about this with the 90 or so newsmen who recularly accompanied me on the tour. In Wauwatosa, Wise, as a matter of feet, a situation precisely and exactly concerning membership in a private club has precipitated a civic crisis that has embroiled an entite community and even caused the state's National Guard to be called out to help keep order when local police were unable to cope with the crowds and the conflict.

THE WAUWATOSA crisis, in short, is about nothing more and nothing less than the right of a private club to set and maintain it own membership rules and for citizens freely to join such groups, or refuse to join, if eligible.

The specific situation, as every newspaper reader now knows, is that in the name of civil rights, large numbers of people have been picketing the home of a prominent Wisconsin judge. The judge's "crime" is that he belongs to a private club, a fraternal organization that does not have any Negro members.

The trouble in Wisconsin is a far and sad cry from the true concern over civil rights which involve, specifically, the relations between a man and his

have been proud to work for many years, in my home state and in the Senate To my mind, the key to those rights is the ballot, the right to vote That right is the basic civil right.

TO MY MIND, by the same token, efforts to extend "civil rights" to cover such things as the use of private property or the tights of free association are wrong and injurious

It is as bad, as I said time and time again during the Presidential campainn, for a law to force people NOT to associate as in the various segregation laws which have rightfully been struck down; as it is to force people. TO associate cas the tickets in Wisconsin are trying to do by taking the law into their own hands.

This extremism in extending the cause of civil rights to cover every relationship between private citizens, rather than just between citizens and govern teent, is now undermining the entire cause, causing new frictions, opening old wounds and causing new ones.

Until now, the symbol of that extremism had been the rioting which, with an implied official sanction, justified itself because of economic and social grievances.

The Wauwatosa incident adds a new symbol to that extremism: a symbol of attack against every facet of privacy in American life and against all notions of private rights and freedom It is a wild and irrational symbol and one which responsible leaders in the civil rights cause promptly and strongly should repudiate. It is probably too much to hope that the national administration would do as much.

Laughable Rights Debacle

President Johnson's statement blaming Congress' failure to enact the obnoxious civil rights bill at this session on the Republicans is so politically patent that it is actually laughable. His effort at buck-passing was so obvious that even some of the most ardent Democratic backers of the rights bill couldn't swallow it.

Not that we consider action by Republicans to block this heinous measure reprehensible. On the contrary, the refusal of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen to accept the bill with its Constitution - shattering housing section is highly commendable, as is all other action against the bill, whether by Republicans or Democrats.

This measure simply is un-American and it is a rank disgrace and an insult to the people of the United States that it was ever introduced in Congress. It would throttle the most important rights of individual freedom and selection of associates. It violates viciously the wording and the intent of the Constitution of the United States.

Republicans reacted sharply to Johnson's statement that "whether it passes or fails will depend largely on what Dirksen does." Dirksen characteristically and with his usual pungency, said he wasn't doing anything, stating, "nothing has changed. My position is just the same."

Sharp and revealing criticism of the President's statement came from both sides. And, thereby may hang a tail, which we have strongly suspected and hinted before. Whatever Johnson may have said or done in behalf of the bill, we believe he is fully aware that the measure is unconstitutional, that it is a travesty on American freedom and that it is an unclean and unfair way to treat both the Negroes and the white people of this country, since it would be robbing both of their American heritage of freedom. Knowing these things, it would be difficult for Johnson to put his whole heart into the matter. Except for the political advantage he might expect to gain, we believe President Johnson abhors the bill as thoroughly as does Senator Dirksen and as do others among both the Democratic and Republican parties who are opposing it.

"The real failure will be the failure to turn out the majority to the extent it needs to be turned out," Javits said.

Similar sentiment came from Senator Robert T. Griffin, R., Mich., who said advocates of the bill are not getting "strong leadership from the White House." In a statement relayed from New York, Griffin said: "The President holds the key to passage of the civil rights bill in his own

A Democrat also objected to any attempt to place responsibility for the bill's fate on Dirksen. "To do that," said Senator Frank J. Lausch, D., Ohio, "is indulging in political manipulations."

But such reports as have filtered through the paper curtain of the press have been garbled or downright

Here, in paraphrase, is what Mr. Nixon is saying to those with whom he has been meet-

THE ECONOMY, Mr. Nixon firmly believes, is in bad shape. President Johnson, he says, could have acted in January to forestall some of the troubles besetting the country. By cutting Federal spending, eliminating tax credits, and taking other strong measures, he could have lopped $6 billion from the budget. There would have been a touchy period of temporary economic adjustment, but by now the economy would be moving on a steady course. But Nixon says, the President thinks only in short-range terms and he was worried about the impact of vigorous action on "consensus" and on the 1966 elections. Elimination now of the 7 per cent tax credit will do him, and the economy, no good since the effects won't be felt for six to eight months from now

The former Vice President foresees continued inflation un-til mid-1967, at which time the country will go into a sharp and long-lasting recession. He points out what he sees as a fallacious belief that you can't have infla-tion and deflation at the same time, and he notes that this is precisely what hit the United States in 1948-49. The situation, he says, is now irreversible, and he sees this as the most important issue. Because he sees recession gripping the economy in 1968, he predicts flatly that Republicans will win the Presidency in that year. A combination of recession, great labor unrest, inflation, and a public realization that the "poverty program" is a vastly expensive bust will swing the voters away from the Democrats.

in which a new House and onethird of the Senate will come up before the voters, as well as a number of key governor-ships, look good for the Republicans. They should pick up about 40 seats, about 25 of which will be conservatively oriented. He predicts that Ronald Reagan will win big in California, taking about 20 per cent of the Democratic vote from Governor Edmund (Pat) Brown on the "open housing" is sue alone. Charles Percy will beat Senator Paul Douglas in Illinois. Edward Brooks, the Massachusetts Attorney General, will defeat his Democratic rival for the Senate seat being vacated by Leverett Saltonstall. Mr. Nixon believes that Re publican Governor Mark Hatfield, running for the Senate in Oregon, is in bad trouble be cause of his "soft" line on Viet Nam. Mr. Nixon discloses that ne advised Governor Hatfield to take a stronger stand, but that his advice was disregarded. In Alabama, Goldwaterite John Grenier will defeat Democratic Senator John Sparkman, but he does not see James Martin de-feating Mrs. Lurlene Wallace, stand-in for her husband George in the gubernatorial contest. Mr Nixon also sees GOP victories in Georgia, with Florida an out-

ON VIET NAM, Mr. Nixon has changed his views. He once thought chances of victory were indeed slim, but after his most recent visit there he is convinced that we can win, but that the United States must act to wrap it up within the next five years, or before the Chinese Communists are in a position to use nuclear blackmail on the rest of Southeast Asia. There is little chance that President Johnson will be able to pull a rabbit out of the hat by some dramatic move there, as Republicans have feared.

The Johnson Administration according to Mr. Nixon, will "sell out" on the admission of Red China to the United Na tions, and the President will 'excuse" this by claiming that the United States "doesn't have the votes" to stop it. But this is not true. If the President makes his opposition unmistakable, the U.N. will not admit the Chinese Reds, he says. Just the hint that the U.S. will pull out if Red China goes in wil block admission.

These, in brief, are some of Mr. Nixon's opinions, predictions, and analyses. If he spoke out publicly as he does privately on Red China, he could guarantee for himself the 1968 Presidential nomination.

Integrationists Ask Private Club Entry

DURING THE HOT debate on the public accommodations section of the current civil rights law, a number of legislators openly laughed at the fear that the section someday could result in attacks against membership in private clubs.

Others, including myself, did not laugh. We warned that this was precisely the sort of precedent that was being set, whether written into the law or not. During the Presidential campaign I can recall speaking several times about this with the 90 or so newsmen who regularly accompanied me on the tour. The majority of them made no secret of the fact they felt

In Wauwatosa, Wisc., as a matter of fact, a situation pre-cisely and exactly concerning membership in a private club has precipitated a civic crisis that has embroiled an entire community and even caused the state's National Guard to be called out to help keep order when local police were unable to cope with the crowds and the conflict.

THE WAUWATOSA crisis, in short, is about nothing more and nothing less than the right of a private club to set and maintain it own membership rules and for citizens freely to join such groups, or refuse to join,

The specific situation, as every newspaper reader now knows, is that in the name of civil rights, large numbers of people have been picketing the home of a prominent Wisconsin judge. The judge's "crime" is that he belongs to a private club, a fraternal organization that does not have any Negro members.

The trouble in Wisconsin is a far and sad cry from the true concern over civil rights which involve, specifically, the relations between a man and his

have been proud to work for many years, in my home state and in the Senate. To my mind, the key to those rights is the ballot, the right to vote. That right is the basic civil right. TO MY MIND, by the same token, efforts to extend "civil rights" to cover such things as the use of private property or the rights of free association are wrong and injurious.

It is as bad, as I said time and time again during the Presidential campaign, for a law to force people NOT to associate (as in the various segregation laws which have rightfully been struck down) as it is to force people TO associate (as the ickets in Wisconsin are trying to do by taking the law into their own hands)

This extremism in extending the cause of civil rights to cover every relationship between private citizens, rather than just between citizens and government, is now undermining the entire cause, causing new frictions, opening old wounds and causing new ones.

Until now, the symbol of that extremism had been the rioting which, with an implied official sanction, justified itself because of economic and social griev-

The Wauwatosa incident adds a new symbol to that extremism: a symbol of attack against every facet of privacy in American life and against all notions of private rights and freedom. It is a wild and irrational sym bol and one which responsible leaders in the civil rights cause promptly and strongly should repudiate. It is probably too much to hope that the national administration would do as

Reply to Criticism of Plaquemines Parish

Mel Levitt's TV 6, New Orleans, La., editorial Friday, September 9, blaming the destruction of our fine public school system on our Parish and school authorities and on our people is untrue.

Levitt talked of "planned chaos," and of those who would rather wreck public education than observe the law.

That fits the federals perfectly.

Under presidential orders to integrate all public schools in the country by 1967, before the next presidential campaign, the federal Attorney General, federal courts, and FBI are violating the 1965 public school Act of Congress, which absolutely prohibits them from exercising any direction, supervision or control of any school system in the country.

Who backed up "planned | chaos," armed rebellion and treason all over the country? The feder-

"Planned chaos" started here with the disruptive suit brought in the name of the United States against our School Board and Commission Council; then several days' court trial which shocked our people who witnessed the proceedings; then the most extreme federal injunction ever issued against any school system, confiscating our schools and putting them under federal administration, integrating every school within one week including athletic and social integration, and ordering negro teachers in every school next

"Planned chaos" included visits by FBIs to teachers and school officials' home day and night; federal subpoenas to over 50 teachers, many bus drivers, school principals and officials ordering them to report to the Post Office at Triumph to testify for days until 10:00 o'clock Saturday night, all of which caused many teachers, bus drivers and the 2 Acting Superintendents to resign, and destroyed our fine public school system.

We, as many others, are the victims of the tyranny of unrestrained, unlawful federal power.

The King Returns

The name of the game is college football and from now through late November it is King. True, baseball's World Series will get its share of the headles for a week or so in October, and there is no doubt that interest is still high in the National League race.

But baseball is almost six months old now and maybe this, more than anything else is the reason football hits with such dynamic force each year.

No matter what the reason, it has become more

No matter what the reason, it has become more and more evident each of the past several years that when September arrives the majority of sports fans begin talking of rating polls, conference clashes and bowl games first and pennant races second.

In fact, attendance at college football games hit a peak of more than 24 million last season. With bigger and better stadiums being built all across the nation there is no doubt that the sport will attract even more followers this year.

The King Returns

It's here. And I think you are ready. I know I am. The name of the game is college football and from now through late November it is King. True, hitter in helping the first-place from now through late November it is King. True, baseball's World Series will get its share of the headlines for a week or so in October, and there is no doubt that interest is still high in the National League race.

But baseball is almost six months old now and maybe this, more than anything else is the

and maybe this, more than anything else is the reason football hits with such dynamic force

No matter what the reason, it has become more Veale, 14-12. and more evident each of the past several years that when September arrives the majority of sports fans begin talking of rating polls, conference clashes and bowl games first and pennant races second

In fact, attendance at college football games hit a peak of more than 24 million last season. With bigger and better stadiums being built all across the nation there is no doubt that the sport will attract even more followers this year.

Also helping the growing image of collegiate football this year is a new and larger contract with the American Broadcasting Company calling for the telecast of more games than ever. This will definite- Baltimore ly give the game greater national exposure and bring greater revenue to the colleges.

As for the actual game combat, for the first time in some years the controversial substitution Horlen (W. 9-12) rule appears to be stabilized. It was established last vear to allow free substitution of players and has not T-2:35, A-14,326 been altered for the upcoming season. However, as many schools were still making the transition from the old restricted rule of two-way play during the 1965 campaign, this will actually be the first season in which all have used it to their fullest potential.

While the substitution rule was left intact for a change, there have been a number of minor rule changes made.

The new rules include (1) the outlawing of the pyramid defense against place kicks, (2) the banning of an intentional backward pass to stop the clock, tion between a player and someone off the field, S-Tovar. (3) the banning of electronic gear for communica-(4) the institution of a mandatory numbering system Merritt (W.6-13) for interior linemen and (5) making it illegal for a Bouton (L,2-8) ball carrier to hurdle over a defender still on his

The tremendous impact with which football bursts onto the scene annually is typified by the throngs of "experts" who given varied and imaginative - but always accurate, of course - reports on the conference races and omnipresent top ten polls which seem to be more firmly entrenched in American lore than apple pie.

In fact, one can check any magazine from Sports Blustrated to Playboy (or a few dozen others) and find out right now who shall prevail in the next three months. Except, for some mysterious reason, I don't suspect you'd find a magazine in the entire group that would bet even money on their selections. | L.Brown (2), Hinton It just doesn't work that way.

Why so many authorities on such a complicated game as football? Because, as Coach Red Sanders was quoted in one preseason analysis report, "There are four things every man in the country thinks he can do better than anybody else: build a fire, run a hotel, make it with a broad and coach a football team."

The Saturday Ritual

And where do I stand on this matter of footba and "the expert?" Feeling that I am level heade enough to know 99 per cent of all this preseason tal is nothing more than bunk based primarily on las year's records and this year's rumors, it is quite evi- chicago dent to me (as it is to you, I'm sure) that to stay dent to me (as it is to you, I'm sure) that to stay away from predictions is wise and to engage in them away from predictions are also away from predictions are also away from predictions are also away from the prediction away fr Nevertheless, here are my picks for this week. GULF STATES CONFERENCE: Southeast Missouri 13, Northeast 7 — First time I can remember my prediction of a Tribe defeat being labeled as an upset. It's definitely a change for the better, but as they say at the strip shows "seeing is believing." Texas A&I 21, McNeese, 7 — Don't know a thing about A&I but don't expect Cowboys to be very tough. Southwestern 35, Louisiana College 6 - Wish they were all this clear cut. Southern Mississippi 17, Louisiana Chicago Tech 0 — Could try to be funny and say Tech is look-ing ahead, but surely they won't torture themselves ahead, but surely they won't torture themselves of the state of the s that way. Northwestern and Southeastern are open.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE: Wish I could go for all the SWC boys this week because they all play intersectional games and six victories would help Maloney (L,14-8) southern prestige greatly. However, I am a pessimist by nature and can see only one victory—Arkansas 30, by nature and can see only one Victory—Arkansas 30, we have a line of the line of Oklahoma State - No match. Illinois 16, SMU 10 - WF. Mustangs will be in this one all the way. Georgia Tech 17, Texas A&M 13—Another case of an improved but unproven ball club, meaning the Aggies. Nebraska 14, CU 7 — Frogs have best club in years but they are young and such a big one this early is a little too much. Kansas 21, Texas Tech 7 - Originally planned to go with Raiders but they, too, are having to start from scratch this season. Southern Cal 14, Texas 10 — Very hard for me to go this way but am afraid Bradley may have the same sort of first game that Houston's touted Warren McVea had on national TV last year which there is maximum fish

when authorities arrested a burly, tatooed tree - trimmer,

William Haywood James, 42, and charged him with Vorner's murder. James' wife, Enda, 34, who allegedly was in the car

when James opened fire, was held as a material witness, but is now free under $2,000 bond.

The arrest on James, and a new outbreak of violence in Grenada outburst came when whites attacked Negroes trying to enter previously white schools there for the first time.

Gov. Paul B. Johnson ordered

the Mississippi Highway Patrol

into Grenada, and the federal government obtained a tempo-

ATLANTA (UPI) — Black power advocate Stokely Carmichael, free from jail on $1,000 bond, said Friday there will be demonstrations as long as there are injustices and "Atlanta might as well get used to it."

Carmichael is accused of starting Atlanta's worst race riot in modern times, a wild rock and bottle throwing affair in which 1,000 Negroes attacked police officers and white moltorists.

The Negro leader head of the starting advocate Stokely Carmichael tody and indicted by a Fulton County (Atlanta) Grand Jury on riot charges.

Carmichael, who made bond Thursday night, explained he had done so because "there is a need for people to be outside, having proved that the arrests were illegal."

As he has before, Carmichael denied his SNCC followers had caused the trouble. Instead, he said, they were a "deterrent to police brutality."

Solon Likes Odds For Powell Strip

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rangy ex-paratrooper thinks he stands a good chance of cutting down Adam Clayton Powell as a power in Congress.

From the rear ranks of the House Education and Labor Committee, which Powell Committee, which Powell heads, Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., has stepped forward to challenge the New York Democrat's leadership by seeking to establish new committee rules.

"I think most of the committee members are with me,' Gibbons said Friday. If he is right, Powell would be left with the title and the gavel of chairman, but little else. The next six Democrats in seniority, as subcommittee chairmen, would wield the power. A vote on Gibbons plan is scheduled for next Thursday.

After 14 years in politics Gibbons still uses idealistic words like integrity, responsibility and duty without embarrassment.

"This is not a personal fight. he said. "It goes deeper. Powell has abused the power the committee gave him. How can we expect the people to have respect for Congress if we don't try to clean up our own house?

It's not a new fight, either. As a freshman member of Powell's committee in 1963, Gibbons' introduction to his chairman was in the nature of a challenge.

He went to Powell's office to tell the Harlem congressman he was going to introduce a bill that would limit payment of congressional staffers to persons working either in Washington or the home state of a member. Powell's wife, on his payroll at more than $20,000 a year. lives in Puerto Rico. The bill became law but it never has been enforced.

An open, friendly man, Gib bons got along well with Powell despite such a contentious start and Powell tapped him last year to handle the administration's antipoverty bill on the floor, a rare opportunity for so junior a

It was their differences over the antipoverty legislation this year that finally led Gibbons to laurch his committee reorganization plan and quietly round up support. He accus€d Powell of delaying the bill so long its chances of passage have been jeopardized. It is due to come up Sept. 26 and the committee revolt has not helped its chances.

Although Powell has charged that he is under attack because he is a Negro. Gibbons is one of the handful of Southerners who voted for the 1965 civil rights bill and the controversial one containing an open-housing pro vision that the House passed

He was strongly supported by the Negro voters in Tampa in 1962 when he ran against an avowed segregationist
